Remote Area Lighting sheds light on isolated sites

Fire and emergency services require portable remote area lighting to illuminate any low light solution or site. Pelican Remote Area Lighting Systems (RALS) provide a powerful battery powered alternative to wasteful gas powered generators.

As a leading dealer of Pelican products, GAAM Emergency Products now offers two key portable lighting options, which have no cables to trip over, no generator fumes and no loud noise to work around.

Available as a single, two and four head light system, the freestanding 9450B RALS offers 6 LED modules that emit an amazing 1280 lumens of clean, white light. Remove the light diffuser and the 9450B RALS becomes a high power search and rescue spotlight with a beam that can penetrate more than a hundred yards of darkness.

The handheld 9430 RALS product boasts up to 15 hours of burn time, 2000 lumens of brightness, a fully extendable mast with 360° rotating head and offers a waterproof rubber activation switch and mast extension lock. A range of accessories are available for both RALS models.

GAAM Emergency Products is introducing a further range of safety equipment from Pelican, offering an extensive choice of Torch Lighting and Protective Cases. Pelican Products is additionally known for its range of intrinsically safe torches for use on BA sets and helmeted brackets and torches.
